Investment strategy

SKAGEN m2 provides exposure to a normally difficult to access global real estate market. The fund selects low-priced, high-quality real estate companies from around the world. The fund is suitable for those with at least a five year investment horizon. Subscriptions are made in fund units and not directly in stocks or other securities. The benchmark reflects the fund's investment mandate. Since the fund is actively managed, the portfolio will deviate from the composition of the benchmark.

Monthly commentary, October 2024

October saw significant macroeconomic fluctuations, largely driven by anticipation surrounding the US election. The US 10-year yield spiked as certain polls indicated a potential Trump victory, which is often viewed as inflationary. Likewise, UK gilt yields surged in response to the new budget announcement. Altogether, this wave of yield-driven macro news slowed the strong recovery global real estate had been experiencing since the summer.

The fund's best performer in October was the US investment manager Digital Bridge after announcing further transactions. The second-best performer was the French housing developer Nexity after delivering a better-than-expected report, indicating that the company might be out of the woods.

The Swedish logistics operator Catena was the largest detractor as it took a breather after strong performance throughout the year.

SKAGEN m2 focuses on resilient companies in trend driven subsegments that are mispriced, can perform in various market conditions, have solid balance sheets and inflation-adjusted contracts. We continue to believe that the long-term outlook for global real estate is favourable as we enter a phase of higher earnings due to a lower cost of capital. In periods of short-term volatility and headwinds, a focus on disciplined stock selection is key.
